

Celebrate with a Ballad

Here's a Brownie Ballad to celebrate Campbell, Jamila, and Alejandra's success! Think up some more stanzas based on the good things you and your Brownie friends do.

Once there were three special girls.
A silver bracelet linked them true.
When they met, each wore a charm.
E - L - F — that surely was the clue!

To what, they wondered, did it lead,
This bracelet that spelled ELF?
Talking of what mattered most
They talked about themselves.

In all the talking, they learned a lot,
And soon discovered something big:
Together they could do so much
And with no costume and no wig.

Give a hand to a mom at the park
Give your turn to someone shy
Take a stand when you'd rather run —
Link arms and you can fly.

The three were having so much fun
Exploring all there was to see.
They made themselves a Brownie Elf House,
Yet knew they missed the key.

What could it mean — this E-L-F?
Were there elves somewhere to find?
Yes! That's it! That's the key!
It's a message meant to mind!

Be like elves and do special things,
And be sure to do them well.
And if you do, the world will know,
You've made a difference all will tell.

Give a hand to a mom at the park
Give your turn to someone shy
Take a stand when you'd rather run —
Link arms and you can fly.
