

Taking Your Multi-Level Troop Camping

Once girls have learned the outdoor skills the badges cover, they'll be ready for their campout.

Consider your group: Will they be happy all going together and do you have enough adults and time to make the experience successful for first-time Daisies and more-experienced Juniors?

Think about this:

- You can all go together or do separate campouts for younger and older girls.
- If your Juniors are experienced campers, they may want to camp with younger girls to show them the ropes, while planning a separate campout just for them.

Whatever you decide, you are about to give all your girls an experience they will long remember!
